GREAT FARCE IS SHOW AT POPULAR

"Stop Thief," Carlyle Moore's great farce, which appeared on the Popular theater's screen yesterday evening for the first time, is a most laughable comedy.

What is a "hispanoamericana"? Noah Webster says he or she is a person of extraordinarily vicious-minded tendencies and morbid impulses. Two kleptomaniacs appear in "Stop Thief," though one only imagines he is of the steamer-minded sort. In addition to these two real kleptomaniacs pickpockets are drawn into the affair, which is a preposterous complication.

One of the real crooks is a new housemaid employed for the occasion, and the other is her master. With their arrival events begin to occur with startling rapidity. Money, jewelry and valuable papers disappear and reappear in the most unexpected places. Even a detective, called to straighten out matters, becomes involved and an object of general suspicion.

Finally a wagon load of policemen arrive and the real crooks hide in their coaches. After an exciting chase they are captured, the maid confesses her desire to continue the "steamer" complications, and the master disappears. In the end there are three weddings. Mary Ryan and Harry Mestayer conclude the lesson with excellent effect. The picture will be shown the remainder of the week.

RAVAGER HAVE FEATURE FILMS

The expose of the activities of the "white slave" industry which drew large crowds to the Mutual theater during its week's run will be shown but twice more, today and tomorrow.

Because of the success of the "feature film" venture, the management of the Mutual has arranged for other offerings to follow. The finale of the "White Slave Drama," and it is probable that features will be continued indefinitely.

Under the auspices of the Educational Research Association, the "White Slave" film was made in an effort to spread broadcast throughout the United States an idea of the evil which exists to such a great measure in the larger cities, especially those seaports bordering on the Atlantic, where the rope boats into America her sons and daughters. This picture has the endorsement of welfare workers from coast to coast.

The adventure of "Kathy," a thrilling serial, is also being shown at the Mutual.

SOPRANO TO HELP AT HARP CONCERT

Thursday evening of this week is the date set for the first of Miss Phoebe Shaffer's harp concerts. With the assistance of Mrs. Bruce McV. Mackall, whose soprano voice is well known to Honolulu's music lovers, and who has recently returned from a period of study in San Francisco, this concert should be interesting. Mrs. Mackall's numbers will have the harp accompaniment, while it will no doubt be quite a novelty to Honolulu that there are on sale at the office of the Territorial Messenger Service.
